FR. BEN'S COLUMN

Watch over me for

"Thy sea, O God, is so great, and my boat is so small."

"Thy sea, O God, is so great, and my boat is so small." President John F. Kennedy kept an inscribed wood carving with this old Breton prayer on his desk in the Oval Office. It was given to him by Admiral Hyman Rickover who typically gave it to new submarine captains as they began their assignment. The president quoted it when he dedicated the East Coast Memorial to the Missing at Sea on May 23, 1963.

We have all lived through storms, both actual storms that make you feel the world is coming to an end and the figurative storms of life when we feel overcome by darkness and terror and we seem to be sinking and drowning. There have been times when we have all felt that the waves of life were just going to overpower and sink us.

Just like our personal lives, the same feelings can arise for families, nations, communities, parishes, the archdiocese and even the Church. It can seem, at times, like the storms that beat against us, the winds that prevent us from moving forward, the waves that threaten to sink us, are just too powerful and we are going to falter and sink into oblivion. And yet, after all the storms of history, the Church is still here. In a storm, the crew looks to the captain and our captain is Jesus.

In Jesus we find our direction, our hope, our strength, our captain. In Jesus we find the one who calms storms, who settles the waves, and silences the wind. Whether in the Church, archdiocese, our parish, our homes, and especially in our own hearts, it is His voice that we should listen for because His voice calms the storms and silences the wind. Even more, His voice gives us direction, shows us the way, and provides the vision for our future.

There is a quote from Mother Teresa hanging on one of the walls at Our Lady of Victory school which says: "Don't wait for leaders; do it alone, person to person." We are all sent into the world by God to carry out a mission. In the eyes of the world, we might be a small boat on a huge ocean, we might appear insignificant. However, for us, believers, we know that all of us, each one of us, is uniquely created by God and God sends us into the world with a purpose. In God's creation, in God's eyes, none of us is insignificant; each one has dignity, value, work to do, a purpose, a mission. We can wait for someone to lead us, or we can make a difference each day in the lives of those we encounter. I hear politicians speak all the time about feeding the poor but very little happens. At the same time, every day I see people donate to the food pantry, and I know that the hungry are fed. I see kids bringing coats, scarves, gloves, and hats to school in the winter, to clothe those who are cold. In a great ocean, you, dear people, are the people that make a difference, and the ocean shall not overcome you. We can be the presence of Jesus that calms the storm.
