FR. BEN'S COLUMNFifth Sunday of Lent

I can remember my very first funeral. It was for my grandfather, my father's father. In Dublin in those days, the body of the deceased was laid out in the home before being brought to the Church. My grandparents lived in a little house in a very old part of Dublin near the docks. My grandfather worked for the railroad and most of his sons worked on or around the docks. People tended to live near their work then. In fact, my brother Gerard now works in the same railroad freight yard where my grandfather and Uncle Jim worked. My parents live in the same parish as my grandparents.

My father brought me to the wake the night before the funeral although my mother didn't want him to take me because I was only six. The wooden casket was laid out on the dining room table in the center of the room. People were milling around, talking, telling stories, drinking, and eating. Uncles, aunts, family, friends, and neighbors were all gathered in this two-room house. I was the only child there, a privilege for me, but I was too small to see into the casket. So, my father picked me up in his strong arms and I was able to see my grandfather for the last time.

At 7:30 p.m. a hush came over the crowd and a decade of the Rosary was recited. The casket was closed and maneuvered through the hall door. It was placed on the shoulders of my eight uncles who carried it through the small, windy, neighborhood streets. It was a cold and very dark January night in Dublin, but neighbors stood at the doors of their tiny houses as the solemn procession passed by. You could see the silent figures making the sign of the cross and bowing their heads.

As we turned the final corner, light poured out into the darkness through the waiting and open doors of the parish Church. My uncles and my father carried my grandfather from the darkness into the light, from the cold into the warmth, and from death into life. Once, for Baptism, my grandfather had carried each of them in his arms into the same church to receive the same light and life. Now they carried him. From the cold and the darkness, they carried him into the warmth and light of their waiting Church, into the arms of a waiting God and Father.

The story of Lazarus tells us that Jesus has the power to overcome even death. He is more powerful than death and Jesus does not want death to be the last word, the last experience, of His friend's life. The cold and darkness of the tomb and death is not the place for the friends of Jesus. Instead, Jesus gives them life and Jesus wants to keep His friends close to Him. He is Lord of life and has power over death. His friends share in this life.

Maybe we might reflect on a number of points from the story of Jesus and Lazarus: Am I a friend of Jesus and will I be close to Him when death comes to claim me? Jesus brought light and life to Lazarus. Am I the sort of friend who brings life, warmth and light into the lives of those I love, my family, spouse, friends, community? Do I love anyone enough to carry them from the cold and darkness of the world into the warmth and light of Christ's life in the Church?

MARY, QUEEN OF ALL SAINTS NEWS

THE SHROUD OF TURIN AND THE BURIAL CLOTHS OF CHRIST – Presented by Frank Denome on March 28 at 7:00 p.m. at Our Lady of Victory's Convocation Center. The Shroud has been touted as a medieval fake and carbon dating appears to support that claim. But are those results reliable? Can the “other” burial cloths aid in refuting this claim? Come and hear what recent scientific research and historical evidence have to say about the authenticity of the Shroud. Full-size images of the Shroud of Turin, the Veil of Manoppello, and the Sudarium of Oviedo will be available for viewing. For more information, please contact the Our Lady of Victory Parish Office at 513-922-4460. There is no charge for the event.

You do not need to know how to say the Rosary to participate. Modifications will be given for those standing or sitting. Bring an exercise mat or towel if you plan to sit on the floor. Chairs are provided. Light hand weights can be incorporated if you want to bring them, but they are not necessary. Please contact Michele at mvollmer365@gmail.com or 513-706-1324 if you plan to attend.
